

Management of Problem Grasses: Cheatgrass, Bulbous Bluegrass, Foxtail Barley

A classroom based workshop to discuss options for managing three of the West's problem grasses will be held at the Campbell County Public Library on:

January 20, 2012
10:00am - 2:30 pm

Have you ever wondered which control methods will work to improve pastures and rangelands which have been degraded by cheatgrass, foxtail barley, or bulbous bluegrass? In this workshop we will discuss current options for controlling cheatgrass, foxtail barley, and bulbous bluegrass, how to assess the recovery potential of your site, and how to develop a site specific strategy for improving the rangeland resource. Lunch will be provided at the workshop, followed by a panel discussion.

For more information or to register please contact Michelle Cook at the Campbell County Conservation District: icd@vcn.com or 307-682-1824

